A MUGWUMP'S TALK.

EORGE WILLIAM CURTIS ON "THE POLIT-ICAL SITUATION."

The Monthly Dinner of the Commonwealth Club—Independence of Party—Civil-Service Reform—The Mission of the Republican Party Accomplished—A Peep Into the Campaign of 1888.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The Co Hub gave its monthly dinner last night at the detropolitan Hotel. About 150 gentlemen were present. D. Willis James presided. On his right sat George William Curtis, and on his left Orlando B. Potter. It was a few minites after 9 o'clock when Mr. James called the assembly to order and introduced the orator of the evening, George William Curtis, who was to speak upon "The Political Situation." Mr. Curtis referred to his presence at the first meeting of the club, and to the general principles upon which its existence was based. He went on to say:

"Here is a club, composed of gentlemen all parties, who entertain differing views of all public questions. I know very well the charm of party association. I have myself stepped to the party drum-beat. I am prouder of noth-ing than of my connection with that party, which, it seems to me, has done more for human liberty and for every popular interest than any other party in the history of the English-speaking race. [Applause.] But, important as party is, there is one thing still nore important, and that is a manly, reasonable American independence party. George Washington, the purest of patriots, warned us that mere party spirit was an ignorant and debasing impulse of public action, not a lofty and ennobling influence that mere party spirit is a fierce, a mischier ous fire, while party principle is A STEADY CREATIVE HEAT

"The one principle upon which this club is ne of the chief objects of that reform is the oration of a party in a republic to it legitimate function. When I first took part in the polities of this country it was in the midst of a tremendous controversy. The Issues were vital and overpowering. The questions appealed to the heart and the conscience of the people of this country. But the business of parties now is to carry the election. The office of a party association to-day and of a party organ is that of the old fire-laddles in New York and of the machine to 'whoop her up.' [Laughter.] I have seen recently that if Mr. Cleveland should be nominated next year, he is aiready as good as elected. [Applause.] I have seen that if Mr. Blaine should be nominated next year he is virtually in the White House [applause]; and I have also seen that if Gov. Hill should be selected by his party he would run like a cyclone [laughter]; and I have also seen that if Mr. Sherman should be nominated he would sweep the country [applause], and furthermore I have seen that if Mr. Blaine and Mr. Cleveland should be nominated they would both be defeated [laughter].

"Now, I wantto say that the situation is something like that of the husband whose wife asked him when he came in to tell her what kind of a night it was. He opened by mistake the closet door and replied: "The night is exceedingly dark, and smells very strongly of cheese. [Laughter.] Now the first thing that strikes an observer who is certainly not a Democrat [applause], and who is certainly discoved by the Republicans [laughter], is that this is a very sad condition. I can only remind you of that wise remark of Mr. Emerson: "Even hell has its excreme satisfaction." [Laughter.] The great parties are now mainly the shadows of great names and represent no definite and distinct policy upon any of the exciting questions. I think there are probably more Republicans who are in favor of civil service reform than Democrats.

"Is the Democratic party a party of civil service reform? The President certainly is a Democrate." ing. The questions appealed to

In Tayor of civil service retorm than Democrats.

"Is the Democratic party a party of civil service reform? The President certainly is a Democrat of unquestionable character. Amid incalculable difficulties he has been honestly endeavoring to carry out his convictions upon this subject. But he has met enormous obstructions, and the most enormous is deavoring to carry out his convictions upon this subject. But he has met enormous obstructions, and the most enormous is the Democratic party itself. [Applause.] The Kentucky Democrats represent the policy and principles of the Democratic party. In the Fresident's own State, the reprentatives in the State Legislature, freshly returned from the people with almost entire unanimity—I think there were two or three exceptions—voted for the repeal of the divil-service-reform law. I will speak, too, of

'There is no doubt whatever in my mind that there are gross wrongs practiced upon the late freedmen in some parts of the Southern States. They are wrongs repugnant to humanity and to the American principle, but both parties agree that the remedy does not lie in national legislation, but that the remedy lies in the States and in the United States Court, and, therefore, the question naturally drops ont of practical policies as a great public question. The Republican party was not organized to promote high protection, or to harmonize capital and labor, or to regulate the liquor traffic, or to reform the civil service. It was organized wholly to resist the curse of slavery. [Applause.] Slavery is abolished, and all the issues that sprung from and followed slavery and the war have been settled. The Union is secure. I think I told no secret when I said I thought the Republicans can say to the temperance people: 'If you leave us, you will leave your best friends.' But there is a cloud on the Democratic standard, and that is the labor vote, which cast 68,000 for mayor in this city, virtually displaced the Democratic party in Chicago, and repudiated it in Cincinnati. The election of 1888 will appeal to the conservative interests of this country. The attitude of the two great parties is necessarily one of compromise. There is now no great question like at of slavery or the leaver will deaven y vary ments and of the conservative interests of the leaver will deaven y vary ments and the same conservation and

Early yesterday morning she stole into the bath-room, and climbing into the tub lay down on her back, opened her mouth, and let the water from the fawest run down her throat. She had put a plece of rubber between her teeth, so that her mouth could not close. The water ran down her throat in such a volume that she died in a few minutes. She had, however, a severe struggle, but she persisted in holding her mouth beneath the spigot until her lung cavity was filled and she choked to death. There was less than three inches of water in

The Coroner's Jury Find Him Guilty of the Murder of John Murdoch.

The wife of Louis A. Amsden, charged with the murder of John Murdoch, was put on the stand at the inquest late yesterday afternoon and made a statement at variance with her former testimony. She said that the gun which her husband claimed to have fired at some men on the bank had not been discharged at all on the night of the murder. She said

Amsden asked to be put on the stand in his own defense. He said his name was Louis A. Amsden, but he had lived with an uncle uamed Osborne for a number of years, and he was sometime known as Osborne, and had been married under that name once. His first wife was dead. Concerning the murder, he repeated the same story that he has told herefore, and denounced the statements of his wife and Keyes as untrue.

The jury returned a verdict of death by hemorrhage from a wound inflicted by a ball fired from a pistol in the hands of Louis A. Ameden. Amsden was immediately returned to the hold-over to await the preparation of a warrant. Mrs. Amsden was released, and she left for her mother's home in Southeast Missouri last night.

FRIGHTENED CONSPIBATORS. The Reason Murderer Pfeiffer was Removed

PORT WASHINGTON, Wis., May 24.-When Ernst Pfeisfer, the confessed murderer of Charles Tiliapaugh in Ozaukee County, was removed from the jail there to Mil-waukee, it created surprise as there where no threats of lynching. Yesterday it transpired the removal was because there were fears that Pfeiffer's friends would attempt a rescue. It is said that Pfeiffer is one of a gang organized to commit a score of murders and robberies. All the plans were laid, but carrying them out was delayed until certain members of the gang had got out of the penitentiary. The story is that Pfeiffer grew tired of waiting and started out on his own account, but was apprehended after killing Tillapaugh. The county officials say they have the names of the alleged coaspirators, who, they feared, would try to release Pfeiffer, not only to save him from punishment, but to get him out of the way, that he could not testify against them in regard to the alleged conspiracy, fearing that as accomplices they would be punished with him.

NEW YORK, May 24 .- Writz Kibitz, 1 year and afternoon, when he began screaming. His mother ran to him and saw a big spider on his left hand. The little fellow held the hand up and acted as though he was in great pain. Mrs. Kibitz killed the spider and observing a small red mark on the child's hand concluded that the spider had bitten the child. She applied some lotion, but the child continued its cries. A few hours later a small red lump appeared on the hand which kept spreading until the swell-ing extended up the arm. A 'physician was spread of the poison. His efforts were unset cessful and on Sunday the child's arm almost to the shoulder was badly swollen. The liffellow suffered great agony and cried incantly until Sunday night when he died. To Coroner was notified and he will make a powortem examination. The spider was

Third Annual Session of the Bight Worthy

Grand Lodge. SARATOGA, N. Y., May 24 .- The thirty-third annual session of the Right Worthy Grand Lodge of Good Templars convened in the Methodist Episcopal Church in this city at 10 o'clock this morning. The session will continue ten days and will be one of the most important ever held by the body, as the question of a reunion of its two branches, which were separated some ten years ago by the secession of some of the trans-Atlantic grand lodges, will of some of the trans-Atlantic grand lodges, come up for action through the united recomendations of the executives of both branch and the advice of most of the prominent me bers of the order in the world. The branch the order sometimes called, "The Engli Branch," or the "Seceders," are represent by a delegation of twenty-one from across Atlantic. The Union Committee of Confence, representing both branches, held secret seasion yesterday, which is reported having been entirely harmonious and favo ble to the reunion proposition.

THE FIGHT OPENED.

R. K. SMOOT ADDRESSES THE SOUTHERN PRESBYTERIANS ON UNION.

s Why the Two Churches Must Re main Separate—The South Does Not Want Union—Differences Between the two Bodies—Another Day of Argument—

The great question that has been so freian Church, the question of organic union, s this morning the special order. Some pre nary business was gotten out of the way, The two branches of the special commit rts, and while they were away nothing wa The majority soon returned waiving privilege of making any change. the minority appeared in the mbly room on motion the Moderator was lied upon to lead the Assembly in prayer is petition was for good feeling among the rethren, that they might be guided by Divine risdom and act for the good of Christ's paragraph which affirmed that there was as outhern branches of the Presbyterian Churc southern branches of the Presbyterian Church as between all evangelical churches. This was permitted. Dr. W. H. Park then signed the minority report and withdrew his individual report presented yesterday.

Rev. W. R. Coppedge of Montgomery, Va., offered a substitute for the minority report avoring harmony, but not union.

A motion was made to lay the substitute on the table, but this was withdrawn as to lay it in the table would carry the entire subject to the table.

the table would carry the chief subject to the table.

There was some preliminary firing and then DR. R. K. SMOOT of the Central Texas Presbytery as chairman of the special committee, opened the argument. He attacked the majority report first as to its claims that the majority of Presbyteries overturing the Assembly were in favor of closer relation. He said there is not a unanimous sentiment in any one of the three synods, Missouri, Arkanssa and Alabama, referred to by the majority in favor of organic union. The presumption was that the silence of the majority of the Presbyteries placed them in opposition to union. There is not a demand in the Church for the opening of the question. The Church was not to follow in the wake of any political or business movements in ueston. The Church was not to follow in the rake of any political or business movements in his country, he said. "They say the war is ver, politicians north and south are fixing p their difficulties, but where's the connection? This is not a war church. his is not a secession church where's the connection? We hold that tion? This is not a war church. This is not a secssion church. Where's the connection? We hold that any man, no matter whether he was born in Maine or Texas, can be taken into the fellow-ship of our church. If we were united with the Northern Church every time we met there would be argument and dissension and allenation. Ours is not a Southern Church, but a Church that differs from the Presbyterian Church of the United States in the interpretation of our common standards. The Church and State are not united. It is said that we fellows are postiferous old agitators because we will not unite with the Northern Church, now that political differences are settled. It is said that we fellow are read of earthquakes, which, natter they have passed, have left fissures in the plains and the granite mountains. The fissure in the plain can be filled up; but it will remain in the mountain—which represents principle—as long as the mountain stands. I mean no discourtesy to any gentlemen but almost all those preachers who have gone back into the Northern Church were the most rabid during the war. It took two men to hold them sometimes when the Northern church was spoken of. The quiet men stayed the longest and only went out when they had to; they have not gone back. When the General Assembly met in Columbus, Miss., in 1874 or 1875, there was so much

TALK ABOUT REUNITING that our committee said to the Committee of the Northern Assembly that if they would say that the political deliverances that caused the split were formulated in times of great excitement the committee would say that the political deliverances that caused the split were formulated in times of great excitement the committee would say that and there the matter rested. But you established fraternal relations in 1882. Yes, and the Northern Assembly agreed to such establishment on the understanding that they receded from no principle. Then two granite pillars were erected, without are hat the top or bridge at the bottom, representing the two churches, showing where

"I was but a young man, hardly a man," he said, "when the roar of the cannon ceased. All that I had ever hoped tor, worldly power or glory, had gone down with that cause. I said to myself there is but one green isle for me in all this turbulent sea, and for that I shall sail. That isle is the church. There I have rested ever since. Patriotism and loyalty are among the vanites for me. The church is the only dear thing on earth for me beside my wife and children. Don't take it away from me brethern?"

He proceeded to a further detailed examination of the majority report. The dictation of beside my wife and children. Don't take it away from me brethern?"

He proceeded to a further detailed examination of the majority report. The dictation of the basis of union he thought disrespectful to the Northern Assembly, and he said "they have too much honesty and principle to accept those conditions." He advised the abandonment of a position he had heard of to the effect that the Northern Church would not accede to the conditions, but, having proposed it, the Southern Church would have the advantage in the public mind. "If you love your Northern brethren as you say you do don't putthem in that position." He told of a Roman general, who, after a battle, having been congratulated on his victory, said: "One more such victory, friends, and we are undone." The church of God

SHOULD NOT PLAY THE POLITICIAN, ought not to trick another. And this church ought to be too grand and Christ-like to resort to such methods. It is utterly unnecessary for the church to attempt to establish co-operation, as the missionary work of the two churches was carried on such different plans that it could not be co-operated. He continued to speak until 19:45 o'clock, when he moved an adjournment to 8 o'clock this afternoon. At that hour he resumed and consumed nearly an hour. Elder J. F. Livingston of Atlanta, Ga., followed for the majority report to morrow.

To-night there will be a foreign missions meeting in the Grand Avenue Presbyterian Church.

A report was received from the special committee appointed to consider the report presented by the committee appointed in 1835 on the eligibility of the ruling elders to the position of moderator of presbyteries. The committee last year recommended that certain changes in the book of church order be referred to the presbyteries, to secure their views. The committee this year recommended that it be not done.

A report was received from the Committee on Systematic Beneficence, and also a partial report from the Committee on Bills and Overtures. The Moderator announced a commission of twenty divines to try the appealed case of Rev. D. P. Robinson against the Synod of North Carolina.

THE EVOLUTION HEREST.

The Committee on Bills and Overtures reported on the overtures from Harmony and South Carolina Presbyteries touching the act of the last assembly on evolution and the power of the General Assembly over theological seminaries and their instructors. The answer was "that the assembly declines to formulate any detailed explanation of the acts of the last assembly, as any such statement however expressed could only be regarded as a new deliverance (legislation) on the same subjects, which this assembly does not feet called upon to make." This was an answer formulated by the majority of the committee. A minority also presented a report. It dealt primarily with the jurisdiction of the different church courts, and the manner in which maters can be brought before the General Assembly. "Respecting the further question of South Carolina Presbytery touching the mode of creation, as defined by the last assembly, we recommend this assembly answer: That the Scriptures clearly reveal that, in the highest sense God is creator of all things, and consequently of Adam's body and soul; and both the Scriptures and our confession of faith teach that his body was formed "of the ground," whether mediately or immediately; but "the inactuation of t

There were a large number of city ministers present at the morning session. Inspecting the Grey Eagle—The Golden Chicken—Mining Gossip. Edwin Harrison has returned from Colorado

Ideal sold at 45 cents and later was 45 cents bid; offered 4712 cents.

The stockholders of the Golden Chicken Mining and Milling Company met last night and elected the following directors: Perry Nagle, Jos. Flannery, Geo. F. Murphy, M. Lane, Peter Tallon, M. Roban, John S. Griffin, D. J. Hayden, Felix E. Gunn of St. Louis, and John D. McCarthy of Colorado. The officers are M. Rohan, President; John S. Griffin, Vice-President; D. J. Hayden, Treasurer; Felix E. Gunn, Secretary. The company expects to push work rapidly. John D. McCarthy is in charge. The mine was reported on by the former Superintendent of the Yankee Girl.

The following delegation will leave for Jefferson City to night to appeal to the Governor In the matter of taxing stock of foreign corporations: L. M. Rumsey, John R. Holmes, G. W. Wright, F. R. Niedringhaus, Felix McCabe, Col. R. D. Hunter, Capt. John P. Keiser, Charles Parsons, L. C. Nelson, James Campbell, A. B. Ewing, Capt. John N. Bofinger, Chas. E. Barney, Andrew Owens, George Tanssig, Henry T. Kent and M. J. Lippman. Speaking of the tax to-day, a well-known holder of stock in foreign corporations said: "The construction the assessors of the State may place upon Judge Black's decision regarding taxing certificates of stock, is of grave importance to the State of Missouri. One construction would be of great dianage by discouraging capitalists from coming to Missouri and driving from the State many who would gladly live here but for this oppression. But another view, and the one clearly in accord with the decision, can have no such dire effects. The Court held, that, with the exception of bank and insurance corporations, the property of all corporations, the property of all corporations within a municipality, is the subject of tax assessment, and is taxed as the property of the corporation; in which even the stock of the corporation; in which even the stock of the corporation in which er resides, the stock becomes taxable as the personal property of the stockholders. That but a small proportion of property of mining companies is within the bounds of the State of Missouri cuts no figure in the case, if tidd then "oppression" could be very clearly demonstrated. Unless the above dectrine is true it follows that every mercantile and manufacturing corporation in the city of St. Louis must be taxed as a corporation on its property in the city and every stockholder must also be taxed on his stock in the corporation.

Judge Jamieson Dismisses a Very Import. ant Suit for Damages.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 24.-Judge Jamieson has dismissed for want of equity the suit of John T. Davies of Liverpool, against his former partner in the provision business, John A. Atkinson, "Swartz & Dupee, John T. Lester & Co., and several other Board of Trade men. The firm of Davies & Atkinson Trade men. The firm of Davies & Atkinson failed over four years ago for over $500,000. Atkinson did a good deal of speculating through Board of Trade firms and his dealings showed a loss of $75,000. Davies sued to recover from the members of the Board of Trade, alleging that Atkinson had used the firm's money while trading in his individual capacity. Judge Jamieson said that the proof showed conclusively that the defendants understood the trades were made by the firm, and the firm received such profits as were the result of the transaction. Over half of the money was paid to the firm. The complainant will appeal.

Mr. Booth, from the Committee of Internal Improvements, reported unfavorably on House bill No. 4, an act repealing an act preventing the granting of free passes.

Mr. Harian, the father of the bill, said that the chairman of the committee had told him the committee would not pass upon it until they were full. He hadn't felt equal to the task of getting them full, but as they had now reported he presumed they had been filled, and the character of their report was the best evidence to him that they were full. [Laughter.] As had divined the reason of their unfavorable report, he proposed to meet their objection by offering an amendment, which was in the shape of an emergency clause, and put the law into effection with the same object could be obtained by leaving the old law stand and excepting Mr. Harian's from its provision. Mr. Harian replied that there were others in the same hoat with him, a statement somewhat indorsed by the vote on his amendment, which was immediately passed, and the bill, as amended, ordered printed.

The Speaker declared the resolution out of order amid a chorus of objections. Mr. Miller moved that the Sergeant-at-Arms to instructed to find Mr. Purdy a companion. When gravity was restored Mr. Mackin introduced a bill reducing sleeping-car rates in the State; also a resolution requiring that before any committee report unfavorably on a bill that the author of the bill should be notified of their intended action and be permitted to come before them. The resolution was laid over under the rules and the House then adjourned until 9 o'clock to-morrow insected of 10 o'clock, in order that the business of the day could be fluished in time for the circus procession which occurs at 10:30 a. m.
JOINT MEETING OF RALEADAD OOMMITTEES.

Senator Sebree introduced Senate bill No. 19, amending the present railroad laws, which was read the first time, and the Senator took the floor on a speech of explanation. The House had adjourned and the spirit of levity prevalent then swept over into the Senate. Mr. Sebree was for an hour subject to various interruptions. The lobby was well filled with ladies wearing corsage bouquets. Certain Senators made a business of collecting these, and, as Senator Sebree reached a period in his discourse, a page boy bearing one of these bouquets in a tumbler of water would approach the Senator's seat and lay the tribute on his desk. Each act of this kind called forth some saily from the orator and invited new assaults. When the nosegays were consumed, and Mr. Sebree's desk looked like a fiorist's window, some considerate gentleman in the lobby began sending him refreshments. A plate some considerate gentleman in the lobby began sending him refreshments. A plate some considerate gentleman in the loosy began sending him refreshments. A plate of strawberries with a spoon in it came down the aisle; then an orange and two ladies' fans, until the President found it necessary to interrupt the play just as a colossal stick of barber pole candy came into sight. The confection was captured by the Sergeant-at-Arms, and the President reminded the gentlemen that they were sitting in the Senate Chamber of Missouri.

The House appropriation bill No. 9 was reported by the Clerk of the House to the Senate and read the first time.

Senator Johnson of the Committee on Railroads reported the schedule of rates and classifications asked of the Commissioners.

The Senate then took up the question of adjournment. A motion to adjourn over till Thursday on account of the circus provoked some debate, and the ayes and noes were called, resulting in its defeat by 28 to 1. The Senate then adjourned to 9 o'clock a. m. to-morrow.

turn to Dinner - Charges Preferred Against an Attorney-The Walsh Seli Against the Exposition Board-A Conractor Defeated in the Court of Appeals -Cases on Trial.

A netition for a welt of habeas cornus wa resented to-day in Judge Barclay's court by Walter F. McEntire in behalf of James Fone, who seeks to recover possession and con-trol of his wife, Louisa Fone, nee Louisa Henke. This is a peculiar case. The huaband states that the marriage took place on the 28th of July, 1886, and that he lived happily with his wife until May 2 of the present year. On that day, during his absence at his business, he states that esidence and induced his wife to accompany them to her old home, where she has been ever since detained and restrained of her erty against her will. He went to the house 5912 South Broadway, and sought an interview ned with violence if he did not do so quickly After that kind of a reception he de termined to appeal to the courts. appears that the relatives of Mrs. Fone objected to the marriage, and in Fone objected to the marriage, and in consequence she was married away from home. The husband declares that he had no intimation whatever of his mother-in-laws intentions, but on the contrary his wife seemed very happy and comfortable the day that she left home. She had called at his place of business in the morning and when he returned at the dinner hour he found the preparations for a meal in the kitchen, a roast in the pan and lettuce washed and cut, but his wife was missing and there was no explanation for her absence.

Judge Barclay granted a writ returnable in Court No. 3 on Saturday morning next, when the matter will be heard.

A complaint against an attorney was lodged to-day in the Court of Appeals by John W. Sharpe against John W. Buchanan of Pike County. A citation issued, returnable County. A citation issued, returnable the first Tuesday in October in the Court of Appeals, when Mr. Buchanan will have to show cause why he should not be suspended from practice and removed from the bar of the State. Mr. Sharpe alleges that Mr. Buchanan on the 8th of June, 1883, while acting as the attorney of C. M. Switzer, assignee of John W. Sharpe, plaintiff in the case of Sharpe vs. Johnson et al. in the Circuit Court of St. Louis County, received and collected of the sheriff of Audrain County, Mo., on account for Mr. Switzer, the sum of $131.50, the amount collected on the judgment. Although demand has been frequently made for the money, it is alleged that Mr. Buchanan has refused and still refuses to pay over any part of it.

The Court of Appeals to-day rendered a decision sustaining the demurrer and denving the peremptory writ of mandamus applied for by Philip F. Steifel, a contractor by Philip F. Steifel, a contractor for alley-paving, against Col. Flad, President of the Board of Public Improvements. The dontractor sought to compel Col. Flad to issue tax bills for the grading and paving of an alley. The contract provided that if the contractor failed to complete the work within one month, the sum of 55 per day should be deducted from the amount payable. The work was not completed until twenty-three days after, and a forfeiture, of 515 was incurred. Col. Frad tendered the contractor special tax bills for $51.84, deducting the forfeiture, and he refused to accept them, claiming that he was entitled to the entire amount, although it was admitted that the forfeiture was justly incurred.

The Courte of Appeals can find no ground for a writ of mandamus in such a case. The petitioner had been led to believe that he might secure an over payment of $115 by first drawing out the money under provision of contract while the work progressed, and before he was guilty of any default, and thus escape the penalty of his remissness when he failed to complete the entire work in time.

A special jury is summoned this afternoon in Judge Lubke's court for the trial of the invitation of the directors, in April, 1883, who offered premiums for the plans submitted, seven from local architects and five from non-resident architects. Under a resolution of the board it was determined that she architect whose plans were the most meritorious and were adopted should not receive the premium offered, 5500, but should be chosen as the architect and superintendent of the structure and receive his compensation in that capacity. Mr. Walsh contended that his plans were considered the most meritorious and were in fact the successful plans, the building being erected from his design, but that the directors did not live up to the contract, as he was not employed as the architect and superintendent. The association replied, stating that it was willing to pay $500 for the Walsh plans, but it was not willing to engage him as the architect and superintendent; neither did it admit that his plans were adopted as the most successful and meritorious.

It was originally laid with asphalt blocks, but these were worn away and have been replaced in patches with cobble stones, granie blocks, wooden blocks and other materials.

Sometime ago petitions were received for the improvement of Windsor place, between St. Alphonsus street and Vandeventer avenue. It was proposed by the Board of Public Improvements to pave the street with wooden blocks provided the property-owners would donsent to pay the excess, amounting to $1,124. The property-owners would not consent to this. They favored the improvement with Telford payement and the Board accordingly set 10:30 a. m., June 14, for a public hearing on this plan.

From time to time the property-holders on Lindell avenue from Grand avenue to the old city limits, whout six hundred and sixty feet west of the avenue, have addressed communications to the Board of Public Improvements asking for the reconstruction of that street. that this was a "Grand Army" year in the history of St. Louis. The motion was adopted unanimously.

In the last general circular issued from headquarters, the Adjutant-General says: "The Grand Army of the Republic knows no such day as 'Decoration Day.' Such is not its proper designation. In our Rules and Regulations and Ritual it is named Memorial Day. On thatday we decorate the graves of our dead. It is earnestly requested that comrades habitually use the appropriate name."

RECEIVING THE PRESIDENT.

The members of the Grand Army Executive Committee are particularly pleased with the President's acceptance of the invitation to be present during the encampment. They appreciate the fact that the Post-DispArch invitation was supplemented to the Grand Army invitation, and that in accepting the one he accented the other. The committee will doubtless make arrangements at its next meeting for a formal reception to the President on behalf of the Grand Army. The members of the Grand Army object stren uously to the efforts of the Hendricks Club to constitute itself a reception committee. They will certainly claim the right to make what arrangements they please for the President's reception. They will probably appoint a committee of clitzens of both parties to go down to the depot in carriages and the St. Louis Light Cavairy to act as mounted escort. If the Hendricks Club desires to serenade the President and call on him at his hotel, the Grand Army have no right to object to that, but the committee expects to arrange the reception at the depot and to see that it is not a political reception.

WHAT ARE BOYS GOOD FOR?

Well, they are certainly good for wearing out clothes. What a pile of money it does take to clothe a family of boys, even a small family of ten or twelve. And then, after you get them all fitted out, the trouble is not over. The clothes begin to fade and shrink up and get too short and too small every way, and then the buttons begin to fall off and the seams to rip. Now, you can avoid all this trouble by buying your Beys' and Children's Clothing of us. We have been buying the goods, cutting and making up the garments in a way that will bring every mother back each season with the boys till they are old enough to come themselves. It gives us just as much pleasure to see your boys well dressed as it does you, and we are glad that we can give them well-made, elegantly fitting suits at lower prices than you would have to pay for goods that are not satisfactory. We know that we have the most convenient, best-lighted and beautiful salesroom, and we honestly think we have the best line of Boys' and Children's Clothing in the West. Our Furnishing Department is having a great sale of Summer Underwear this week, our wholesale stock going very cheap. Come and see what we are doing before you buy.

T. LOUIS AND UNIVERSITY CLUBS TO MEET ON THE DIAMOND.

Play a Game of Base Bail—A Prompt Acceptance of the Defi—May 31 the Date and Union Park the Place of the Match-Air Mission-Mayor Francis Selected to Umpire—The Probable Nines—A Re-cherche and Exciting Event Promised.

On May 31 something entirely unique in the ay of a base-ball game will be given in St. onis. It will be a recherche affair, and or that day society will reach down from its pin the social fabric knickerbockers will yank This particular affair cannot fail to be thoroughly select. The explanation of it will be ound in the following correspondence:

To the St. Louis Club:
GENTLEMEN—Our attention having been GENTLEMEN—OUR attention having oven called to the fact that you consider yourselves experts in our great national game, we hereby challenge you to play us a match game of base ball, at any time and place, for the benefit of any charity you may designate. Respectfully, BASE BALL COMMITTEE UNIVERSITY CLUB. 8t. Louis, May 23, 1887.

This taunting and defiantly polite missive hallenging a crossing of bats on the field was nclosed in a peach-blow envelope sealed with wax and stamped with the stamp of the University Club and with the armorial bearings of he collegians, and was sent by herald to the St. Louis Club. It brought out the following terse and pointed but courteous reply: ase-Ball Committee University Club:

GENTLEMEN—We beg to acknowledge the re-ceipt of the challenge of the University Club of the 23d inst. and hereby accept the same with alacrity. We select as the day Tuesday, May 3l, and as the place Union Base Ball Park, and name as the charity the Fresh Air Mission. Very truly yours.

Very truly yours,

BASE BALL COMMITTEE ST. LOUIS CLUBSt. Louis, May 24, 1887.

BASE BALL COMMITTEE ST. LOUIS CLUB.

St. Louis, May 24, 1887.

THE PERFECT CONFIDENCE

with which the members of the two clubs are willing to tackle the national game on a hot day is indicated by the wording of the challenge and its prompt acceptance. Since the correspondence has passed and the event has settled down to a fixed fact, the excitement in the two clubs over it and the probable outcome has become intense and threatens to communicate itself to the entire West End. It has been the topic of conversation on the street, on 'Change and in the offices, and bids fair to wipe out the latest reception, wedding and wrinkle in bonnets at high teas and luncheons, for the ladies cannot help dividing up in factions and championing the sides where tenderest affections are centered. The committees of the two clubs who have the match in charge have been actively engaged in making preparations for the contest, and the prospect is that two nines such as never have been seen in St. Louis will meet at Union.

tenderest affections are centered. The committees of the two clubs who have the match in charge have been actively engaged in making preparations for the contest, and the prospect is that two nines such as never have been seen in St. Louis will meet at Union Park.

At the time fixed for the game there will be no professional game in the city, and President Stromberg of the League club has generously donated the park for the occasion. Coi. Sumner of Jefferson Barracks has offered the Arsenal Band to furnish the music while the great game is in progress and between innings, so that the park and music are assured. The other expenses of the game will be borne by the clubs, so that the gross receipts will go to the fresh Air Mission fund. One of the high-coliared members of the University Club when he heard the object of the game will be borne by the clubs, so that the gross receipts will go to the fresh Air Mission fund. THE QUESTION OF SELECTING the nines is now agitating the committees and the number of candidates who have sat on the reserved seats of the two parks and long cherised the idea that they could catch a ball if it came at them any way right, and are sure they could hip one, threaten to embarrass them to some extent. The University Club nine has already been partly selected, and includes some of the solidest gentlemen in the city. If the present list holds, and it likely will, the infield will be made up of Mr. Mitchell Scott behind the bat, Mr. A. B. Pendleton in the pitcher's box, Mr. F. A. Churchill at first, Mr. Sam Hoffman at second, Mr. H. Livermore at third and Judge S. M. Breckenridge at short. Judge Breckenridge will also captain the nine, his suave and courteous manners, making him eminantly fit to scotte the ruffled feelings of his men, and to assure a peaceful and pleasant settlement of all difficulties. For the outfield the gentlemen have not yet been selected. The committee recognize the value of height and reach in the field and are looking about for tail members. Among the candidates are Dr. De Laney, Messrs. 'Doo' Kennett, Harry Hitchcock, Jack Shepley and R. O. Lee.

The committee for the St. Louis club has not progressed so far in the selection of players. Among the gentlemen mentioned, who are familiar with the sport, are Mr. James Lewis for captain and short stop, Mr. Chas. Parsons for pitcher, Mr. Charles Greety for Ist base, Mr. Samuel Dodd for 3d base, and Messre. Arthur Lee, Chas. Wiggins, Charles Bates and St. Francis. It was rumored on the street to-day that the St. Louis club intended to hold a meeting within a few days and vote in as members of the club three of the St. Louis Browns who can be utilized to excellent purpose in the game. Should this rumor prove to be true, the University Club laid plans to meet such tactics and will have a reserve on the field.

The question of the umpire has been settled by the unanimous selection of THE QUESTION OF SELECTING and the St. Louis Club men high black hats. It is probable that the suits will be left open to the taste of individual players, and lawn tennie, gymnasium, boating or mixed suits will be acceptable.

Some discussion was had as to special rules, some prospective players desiring regulations against hot bails, base sliding and fast curved pitching. One player said it wouldn't be pleasant to have 50 stand at the bat with any uncertainty as to where the bail would go, and a prominent candidate for second base said if the catcher made any attempt to put the ball into his hands before the base runner got to him he wouldn't play. The refreshment stand will be at center-field and any base runner reaching second will be entitled to a smile. The price of admission will probably as 50 cents and tickets will be placed on sale at prominent stores within a short time. A great game is promised.

QUARRELLED ABOUT THE BEER. msden's Reason for Killing Old Man

msden, alias L. A. Osborne, who is held for of the River Des Peres, called at the Carondelet Police Station to-day. The Carondelet Police Station to-day. The woman, who was set at liberty after the inquest yesterday, came to collect her goods, which had been taken by the police. She was in a talkative and even jolly mood, and appeared more like a romping school-girl than like a married woman who had figured in such a tragedy and whose husband was now held for murder. To a POST-DISPATCH reporter she made a statement which is very important, as it furnishes a motive for the murder of Murdock, which has been missing. She said "on last Wednesday afternoon" [Murdock was murdered early Thursday morning] "my husband was away from the camp all day, seeking employment. I was "my husband was away from the camp all day, seeking employment. I was sitting in Murdock's tent, with Murdock and several other men, all strangers to me. Murdock bought some beers and he and the men were drinking it when my husband arrived. My husband raised a frightful fuss with Murdock over the beer, and both men eam very near having a fight. This was very late in the afternoon, near 6 o'clock. Nothing more was said or done, until I was awakened that night by the pistol shot. I called my husband who was outside and asked him what the shots meant when he told me the lies which I have aiready stated. He then picked up a huge cheese knife and began me the lies which I have siready stated. He then picked up a huge cheese-knife and began sharpening it. I know if I had said to him, 'Louis, did you kill Murdock?' he would have cut me to pieces, because his very actions betrayed that he had done some terrible deed. He was the first man I ever loved, and, in fact, it was a case of love at first sight. When I first knew him he was a sober, industrious man, but somehow or other he always preferred to live in a camp away from everybody. If I can get out of this scrape and away from this man, the next man I get I am going to know thoroughly or there won't be any marriage."

Hunter, President of the Light Cavalry Association, Capt. R. L. Henry, Lieuts. Abadie and Thomas and Col. Wm. Buil, Inspector-General. A long conference was held. The Adjutant-General stated his reasons for ordering the disbandment of the troop, which were those given in the Post-Disparch last evening. He was told that the Cavalry Company had never had any idea of disbanding or leaving the service. The Adjutant-General said that he could not revoke his order of disbandment without instructions from the Governor, but he gave the officers to understand that everything would be fixed to their satisfaction.

It has developed that C. D. Comfort, Major of the First Regiment, wrote to the Adjutant-General after the order disbanding the regiment was issued, asking why the cavalry had not been included in the order.

In the face of the talk of disbandment the troops drilled twenty-three men last night, seventeen mounted, and three new members were sworn in.

Canada is evidently not ready for free speech or popular government, and prefers to settle all disputed questions by the Belfast plan, but it is rather peculiar that the Canadians should enjoy that sort of a thing.

THE Transportation Committee of the Merchant's Exchange reflected the general sentiment of St. Louis when it said with regard to the proposed extension of the St. Louis Tunnel and Railroad Company's tracks that every facility for terminal connections should be granted under reasonable conditions and safeguards. The future growth of St. Louis will be largely determined by the railroad connections which are now seeking the city, and the advantages which they offer cannot be made available too soon.

"SOLITARY and alone" the Post-Dis-PATCH suggested a monster petition to the President to visit St. Louis and a delegation to Washington to present the petition The Grand Army Committee struggled in vain to resist the suggestion, adopted it grudgingly and were doubtless surprised to find that it was appreciated by the President and responded to. As the President had taken no notice whatever he first invitation, his graceful acquice in the petition shows the difference en "How to do it" and "How not to > SECRETARY LAMAR'S declaration of his olicy in limiting the privileges enjoyed by the land-grant railroads of withholding public lands from settlement is practical redemption of one of the pledges which both parties have been in the habit of making, but which the Republican party has systematically broken. The record of the Republican party on the subject of public lands is alone sufficient to justify its exclusion from office, and rejoicing over the patriotic stand taken by Secretary LAMAR is heightened by the reflection that no such action could have been looked for from a Secretary of the Interior appointed by BLAINE.

THE reorganization of the Mexican Naional road under conditions which promise its completion within a year is the most important item of railway news. The Mexican National is the direct line from the City of Mexico to St. Louis, and is some five or six hundred miles shorter than its competitor, the Mexican Central. It is unfortunately a narrow-gauge road, and its history has been in every way an unfortunate one. But it runs through a country of magnificent possibilities and as it is the most direct and shortest of all possible roads between the United States and the thickly settled States of Mexico, it will be a valuable addition to the commercial interchanges of the two countries.

THE much-advertised national drill at Washington has · dwindled down to a small failure and little interest is taken in it either by the militia companies or by the public. The truth of the matter is that the American people, under the natural influences of prolonged peace, are being educated into a dislike for war and for everything connected with it. Perhaps in all the history of the world there is no more remarkable and exceptional spectacle than that presented by the United States to-day of sixty millions of people living at peace with all the world and unprotected by forts, armies, cannons or any of the modern devices for killing men. The growing indifference to military matters among a people so sitnated is not to be wondered at, and we do not know that it is to be deprecated.

Zola's revolting "L'Assommoir." In point of construction this drama was by no means the most favor able construction of the novelist's powers of dramatic adaptation. It cost him but a few weeks' labor in Paris in the spring of 1879 when the original play was being performed at the Ambigu. But it took the London public by storm. Play-goers and folks who were no play-goers nightly crowded the Princess' Theater to suffocation in order to witness its fascinating but most lugubrious scenes. In cessful. I have it on excellent authority that England, "Drink" enriched the exchequer o its adapter by something like £10,000.

NEW YORK, May 24 .- The World says: "Dr. DeWitt Webb, until recently medical officer in charge of the Apache captives in Florida, hinks that the Indian has within him the elenents of a sturdy race, capable of great endurance and possessing a high degree of health. It is easy to persuade the public that the Apache has all the health and power of endurance that he needs. This fact is one of the circulating 'chestnuts' of the day. The press is the only representative of enlightened public opinion and human civilization. If public opinion couldbe falsified, if civilization could be set back to the strongbows' standard, the Canadian bullies and the English bullies think they might have their way. They see their enemy in the press, and then they to their bludgeons fall. Yet they have not been able to succeed in their attacks upon two or three unarmed reporters. Thus the civilized world, the enlightened opinion of mankind, are not to be persuaded by the clubs of thugs from their firm belief in the good cause of Ireland, nor from their support of it."

The Tribune says: "There has been an abnormal development of hindsight in the Dominion since the murderous assault upon Mr. O'Brien and the American newspaper reporters. Municipal and imperial authorities are receiving elaborate explanations from the Toronto press in relation to the measures which ought to have been adopted before the outrages occurred. That press ought to profit by its own lectures, so as to discern its duty on similar occasions. THE TIMES.

The Times says: 'It is not at all improbable that the Hon. Charles Tupper, Finance Minister of the Dominion of Canada, visits Washington on business connected with the settlement of the differences between this country and Great Britain, growing out of the relations of our people to those of Canada. But if so, this business must necessarily be transacted through the British Minister, under the direction of the Government, since the Dominion can have no diplomatic intercourse directly with the United States. At the same time, Mr. Tupper may very properly hold unofficial communication with our Government and give it information and even suggestions of value and interest, as other Canadian statesmen have done in the past. In any case, he is entitled to and will receive courteous attention as an officer of high rank in a friendly Government.'

Old Duke's cage stood on the barn floor. This was the theatre of a brief but terrible struggle that morning. Frayne had the stall and trembled whenever the lion glance that the front of the cage had been thrown open and the lion was gone. The next quickly to a post where he remembered having left a lariat, took it up, coiled it and stepped back to the partition. Throwing back his arm, Frayne said to the lion sternly: "Duke!" The animal raised his head and glared. Frayne then flung the rope round Duke's head and end of the lariat to the cage, passed it through escaped and around three iron bars. He then pulled on the lariat with the slip-noose, shut-ting off his wind, and, with the stout cord urging him toward the cage, old Duke left the horse slowly, growling and roaring as he went. When he would stor

The entire front of the cage can be lifted off like a door in a dwelling. The lion has a habit of raising himself on his hind legs and scratching with his fore feet, at the top of the cage on the side near the hinges. In raising himself up his shoulder had lifted off the iron-barred front. Finding himself free the lion sprang at the horse which was directly opposite him and caught him by the neck. Blood had spouted in streams on the partitions on either side of the stall. Old Duke had not done quenching his thirst for blood when Frayne came in on him. ### Audrain's "Gillette De Narbonne."

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

New York, May 24.—Mr. Amberg last ever ng began the second week of his seas his New Terrace Garden Theater with the first his New Terrace Garden Theater with the first production in this country of Audrain's comic opera "Gillette De Narbonne," in the title role of which Frau Zimaler-Modjeska made her first appearance in this country. The opera is unfortunate in two respects: The plot is that of Shakspeare's "All's Well that Ends Well" altered, and always for the worse. What the English poet suggests the French librettists Duru and Chivot cause to be almost represented on the stage. In its music, too, the opera is unfortunate. Some of the songs are set to taking and some to good music. The march at the end of the second act has been given a thousand times in "Adonis," and the waitz in the third act has been made familiar at the Standard Theater. It is only charitable to Frau Zimaler-Modjeska to suppose that the nervousness of the first performance prevented her doing hersele justice last evening. In the first act sht appeared to very little advantage, buas the evening advanced she ret gained her composure and acted with some archness and power. Her voice last night was poor and not skillfuffy managed. She will possibly do better in some of the farces with songs than in the more ambitious comic operas. Rome is said to be given with really wonderful effect. It is not like the conventional stage fire scene, where a little red light and a puff of smoke from the wings is supposed to convey to the audience the terrors of a conflagration. The burning of Rome lasts fully twenty minutes, during which time the great city is roing up in flames in sight of the audience. The scene is a public square from which is had a view of the city and the Tower of Mæcenas from which Nero views the fire and sings the famous "O filon, O liton," until driven back by the flames. The flight of the city begin to fall in ruins works the audience to a high pisch of excitement, which reaches a climax when a house on the left of the square falls with a deafening crash, burying Epicharls and Chrysa, two of the leading characters of the opera, in the ruins and filling the stage with debris. The ballets in "Nero" are said to be beautifully arranged, and the ballet music of "Nero" has been for some time a feature of the Thomas concert programmes. The ballet of the second act, in which Bacchantes, Roman warriors and jugglers take part, introduces a wonderful pas de deux between Theodora de Gillert and Mr. Cammarano, the wonderful ballet dancer.

I can only pade of the English newspaper men by their conduct would have run through the after-dinner talks and dignity were at times almost oppressive

The Clover Club member who believes in howling down and jeering at invited guests when they attempt to make any kind of speech, would doubtless have found nothing but finnkeyism in the polite forms of address of "Mr. Chairman, my Lords and Gentlemen," which preceded the opening remarks of every member of this club. But yet, on the face, it had nothing but the appearance of courtesy, and the criticism that naturally would come to the mind of an American in listening to the speeches of the members of the Press Club would be this: That the English newspaper men were too respectful, and that their speeches, when addressed to public men who were present, were not in a spirit which indicated a feeling of equality with the men who were scated at the same table with them.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS.

I notice throughout all the talk back and forth that unusual importance was given to the war correspondents. They were the herces of the club and were especially complimented by the public men in flowery phrases.

The Ment Company Fight.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Judge Bartiett denied yesterday an application made by John B. A. This applicant was dismissed with a short explanation of the difficulties that must be encountered in arranging for sprinkling the streets. In this way the heads of the various departments have been given to understand that strict economy will be required of them for the coming year.

This year the Municipal Assembly met two weeks later than in former years, under the amendment to the City Charter, leaving very little time between the legislative and the fiscal year, and complicating matters somewhat at the City Hall. A skeleton appropriation bill has been presented to the Assembly and referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. In the meantime making provision for all the expenses of the city for the committee on Ways and will be presented to the inspection of the committee and substituted for the original bill. In his estimates, which will be presented in a few days, the Comptroller is making an allowanc for $57,000 for an increase of the Police Department. It was proposed some years ago to increase the department by adding 100 patroimen. At that time the money could not be appropriated for the purpose, as the $700,000 judgment of the Gas Company against the city was not satisfied. Out of the municipal revenue last summer $100,000 was appropristed for this purpose. It was promised that money would be laid side in the annual estimates of this year for an increase of the department if the Municipal Assembly enacts a bill to add sixty men to the force. A bill will probably be promoted to the rank of sergent. If the bill is defeated the money can be turned to other accounts.

A Gang of Dangerous Counterfeiters Capt y Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

James Burke, Lewis Simon, B. F. Hamblen, Louis Wirtemberg and J. P. Broderick of New York, with Benedict Davis of Newark, were The gang left Boston about a week ago and began to arrive at the Eagle House in parties began to arrive at the Eagle House in parties of two and three. The advent of so many men of by no means prepossessing appearance, aroused the suspicion of the proprietor of the hotel. At times the whole party would meet in Steinburg's room, giving out that they were in Portland to introduce a new kind of soap. When asked as to the manner of doing business they replied: "We propose to sell two packages of powder and sixteen bars of soap for $1." After the entire party arrived, while they did not seem to be making a canvass of the city, it was noticed they were well supplied with silver money. They paid all bills in silver, but the fraud was soon noticed. While at the hotel most of the men began to drink freely. The chief of the party, Steinburg, kept to his room closely, and was frequently closeted with his assistant, Davis. The latter part of the week Steinburg and Davis started on a spree and made themselves very conspicuous. At these times remarks were made which attracted the attention of the bartender, who informed the Chief of Police that he believed the men were counterfeiters. A detective was put on the case, and he succeeded in making a visit to Steinburg's room under the guise of a farmer who was anxious to secure counterfeit money. The place was raided, and the gang secured with sufficient evidence to convict them. The men are thought to be professionals from New York who were off their guard, feeling secure in the bellef that the Portland police would not discover them. The prisoners' ages range from 23 to 28 years, and they were yestercay after noon photographed and their pictures will be sent to New York for identification. of two and three. The advent of so many

gth of the German Forces

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch an article evidently inspired by some military uthority and inserted before the public atn was fixed on the French mobilization bill, declares that the strength of Germany is a very instructive table showing the number frontier. They consist of 177 alions of infantry foot, 140 squadrons of cavalry, of artillery, 15 of artillery on foot, seven battalions of poneers and five battalions of train troops. Considering that on the French side of the frontier there is simply the army corps, now under the command of Gen. Fevreier, and even admitting that the French artillery has most of its ammunition in readiness, and that the French cavairy is permanently completely horsed, people of good sense and acquainted with the strength of both countries, recognize that there is no room for apprehension as to the weakness of the German forces on the French frontier.

An Interesting Interview With the Canadian Finance Minister.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch. NEW YORK, May 24 .- Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian Minister of Finance, at present visiting in this city, expressed his views on matters which interest the metropolitan public. His first remarks concerned the visit of Mr. O'Brien to Canada, and while he did not go into the subject very extensively, he made his remarks sufficiently pointed.

"One of the advantages which we think the British system has over the American system," he said, "is that both in England and in Canada all parties treat the executive head of the nation as beyond criticism. We attack the responsible Ministers of the day in England, and in Canada we do the same thing. But we don't attack the executive head of the country. Fiercely as controversy may wage between the two parties, they all unite in sustaining the executive head of the country. It naturally follows that we disapprove very strongly—all parties and all classes of us—of a departure from that course by anybody." His first remarks concerned the visit of

The Report That Mrs. Alexander Mitche Will Contest Her Husband Will.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 24.-A News special from Milwaukee, Wis., referring to the report that the widow of the late Alexander Mitchell would contest the will, says: Mr. John Johnston says that the report had not the slightest foundation. "The will could not be contested under any circumstances," he said. "Mrs. Mitchell went to Florida without signing as an executor of the will. If she should prefer to stand on her dower right the whole matter would be quietly settled without any publicity. I don't think she intends to do this, however."

cher Stagg's Peculiar Delivery—What Hanlan and Gaudaur Are Doing on Calu-met Lake—Pat Sheedy Has a Word to Say

President Byrne of the Brooklyn Club is at ent engaged in warring upon the new evil duced by the Detroit Club not long ago hat of farming out or renting players to ninor organizations. The example of Detroi was taken up by the Cincinnati management, who rented Kappel to Memphis. "If this who rented Kappel to Memphis. "If this course of action were countenanced," said Mr. Byrne to-day, "the base ball interests of the country would be wrecked in a few months. It is bad enough as it is now to sell players like they used to sell slaves before the war and enough comment has already been excited by these proceedings. But the matter becomes disgraceful, outrageous, in fact, when men are rented out or loaned like so much inmen are rented out of loaned like so much in-animate property in order to cut down ex-penses. It is apt to make any man revolt and no man could be blamed for rebellion against such a vicious system. But apart from any feeling we might enter-tal n for the player himself, and this is the most important point in the whole question, it is clearly against the interest of base ball nen and their clubs to tolerate the evil. We will say, for instance, that there was a difference of only a few games between the Browns and the Brooklyns for the championship at the end of the season. If I were permitted to hire Kilroy or Ramsey, or both, to pitch in those games the injustice to the St. Louis Club would be rank. The Cincinnati management claimed that their action in bearing out Kappel was not in contravention of any of the articles of the Association constitution, but they had evidently forgotten to read the national agreement, where such action is positively forbidden. Mr. Von der Ahe and the majority of the other managers in the Association are with me in the fight, and so is PresidentNick Young of the League. I do not anticipate that the cases of Detroit and Cincinnati will be repeated. will say, for instance, that there was a differ

Chicago vs. St. Louis.

The Chicago Board of Trade Base Ball Club has challenged the St. Louis Board of Trade nine, and the latter organization will go to Chicago early next month, when the game will be played. Both clubs are strong ball teams and an interesting match is anticipated. The make-up of the St. Louis team is as below: P. Fletcher. c.; Joe Murphy, p.; Ira Perry, Ib.; M. McCarty, 2b.; Frank Peterson, 3b.; J. P. Newell, ss.; Ed Samuel, I.f.; Rus Samuel, r.f., and O. Nedderhut, c.f.

Stagg's Delivery.

The New Haven Register says: "Stagg was good enough to win last year, but instead of being satisfied with that he has made a marked improvement. While always a close pitcher, he now wastes no balls at all. Every one is pitched with a distinct purpose and not very far from the plate. He is compactly built, has short arms and good shoulders. He is not likely to wear out and his methods insure him comparative immunity against an overworked arm. He has already accomplished what has been too much for the pitchers Yale has had in the past, namely, entering upon a second season better than the last. The reason for this is plain to one watching him closely, and is worth describing. The average pitcher is able to deliver an "out" or "in," a "rise" or "drop," and to combine these more or less effectively. He may also vary his speed somewhat, but it will be noticed that he has but one general improvement. While always a close pitcher, shoulder, the change is so small that the relief is short-lived.

In Starg's case it is very different. He can accomplish his curves equally well in the ordinary elbow-bent style, and also with a straight round-arm swing, which not only alters materially the appearance of the curve, but gives his arm a complete rest. This delivery he at times supplements by a wrist motion which enables him, without varying the speed of the arm, to ohange the speed of the bail. Now, the fact is, that a great many pitchers imagine that they have at their command more than one delivery, but it will be noticed that when they have but one bail left and must put it over the plate, or at other really critical points, they always use the same style. They may send an out or an in or a straightball, but it is delivered in one way, and the batsman is seldom puzzled by it. This is the only true test of real command over delivery, and Stagg possesses this and makes excellent use of it, so much so, that a batsman can place no reliance upon getting an easy one to hit when the balls run up high.

The fact that betting was allowed on South-ern League grounds and a continual fight about umpires has led to the breaking up of the League.

League.

Toole, the young Brooklyn pitcher, is regarded as the coming man on the team. He will be played in the opening game with the Browns at Brooklyn on Decoration Day.

Charley Sweeney, the pitcher-first baseman of Cleveland, will not pitch without extra pay. After a few more performances like that of yesterday "Charley Dead Arm" will be paid to keep as far away from the pitcher's box as possible.

The "visitors" to the press-box at Sportsman's Park are the most stolid people in any four States in the Union. The pachydermatous quality of their hides is rare enough to attract the attention of the World's Medical Congress when it meets in Washington.

The Clevelands have been "agreeing" with visiting clubs that there shall be no coaching, and the players sit on the benches like so many resuscitated mummies. Wait till the Browns get to Cleveland and they will show the people there what a real live ball ciub is.

The reason for the New Yorks' bad luck is Browns get to Clevenan and the ball club is.

The reason for the New Yorks' bad luck is thus explained: Last season the club had white uniforms with the words New York across the breast. Although the club's uniform was changed this spring, the mascot still wears his last year's uniform. With such luck as he had with it last season, how can he be expected to do anything in that uniform this year?

expected to do anything in that uniform this year?

Paul Radford, the dandy little right-fielder of the Metropolitans, is independent of ball playing, as far as the salary is concerned. His parents are in good circumstances, but do not object to his caraing a livelihood with the ball and the bat. On the contrary, his father is a great admirer of the national game, and did all in his power to get Paul started on a professional base ball career. It is even hinted that Radford, Sr., paid part of Radford, Jr.'s, salary the first season he played with Boston. He doesn't have to do that now, as Paul is a valuable man and draws the money on his own merits. His father attends a great many of the games, and the other day when Paul made four hits in a game with the Brooklyns, he presented him with $25.
